Masterfully constructed by skilled artisans, Ralph Lauren's Anaglyph collection is influenced by the old-world elegance of traditional antique area rugs. Crafted from hand-knotted pure wool, the soft pile affords a comfortable underfoot while hand-stitched binding provides lasting durability. Beneath the veiled patina, delicate florals and scrolling vines add subtle pattern to this tonal rug.

Crafted from hand-spun wool, Ralph Lauren's Reynolds collection is designed to faithfully recreate the free spirit and rich patina of Oushak tribal rugs a style native to Turkey in the 19th century. Knotted by hand in the tradition of nomadic weavers, the extra thick yarns and large Turkish knots yield a plush pile and comfortable underfoot. Each rug is detailed with fringe edges and specially washed to achieve a subtle sheen inspired by the lustrous finish inherent to antique Oushak rugs.

Inspired by traditional Fair Isle knits from Scotland, Ralph Lauren's Sheldon collection showcases an exquisite pattern woven from a supple blend, including premium wool that is hand-carded and specially washed for an aged appearance. Bamboo silk and space-dyed yarns create magnificent highs and lows throughout the expertly sheared low pile. The hand-knotted construction nods to ancient nomadic techniques and employs the Persian Senneh knot, prized for its tight weave and fine detail.

STANDING CROSSES

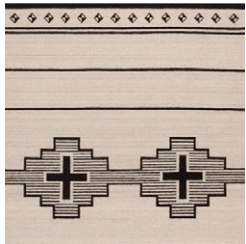

RALPH LAUREN

GEOMETRIC

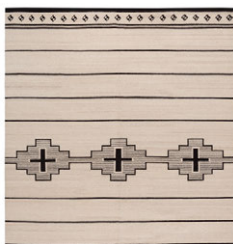

Ralph Lauren Home proudly presents the debut collection from our Artist in Residence program, reflecting an evolved design approach with the artisans and communities that inspire us. This special collaboration with siblings Naomi and Tyler Glasses—both seventh generation Diné (Navajo) weavers—honors Navajo heritage and centuries-old traditions. It includes fabrics, floorcoverings, textiles, and decorative accessories inspired by the beauty of their homelands on Dinetah (Navajo Nation), and the weaving practice they learned from their late grandmother, notable artist Nellie Glasses. Handwoven with wool and cotton yarns, the Standing Crosses rug was designed by Tyler and is inspired by one of his original weavings. In natural cream and sepia hues, the pattern features four-directional crosses, signifying the Earth's four directions, framed by a stepped motif detailed with narrow stripes representing the striations within the natural rock formations on Dinetah (Navajo Nation).
